Editor's Column

Twenty-five years ago we enrolled our oldest child at Sunset School in kindergarten. Sunset was the only school in Carmel district. After the eighth grade, students continued their education in Monterey.

In the intervening years Carmel district obtained its own high school, enlarged Sunset School, built Woods and River School. Carmel Highlands residents voted to join Carmel district. Carmel Valley residents followed suit. Subdivisions developed in open countryside. There are seven schools in Carmel district now. More are planned.

Growth through the years has not been confined to boundaries and buildings. Curricula have expanded. Recreation programs and facilities have enlarged. Faculties, administrative and maintenance staffs have been augmented to take care of waxing student bodies. A fleet of buses rolls over once-walked roads.

But there has been one constant through the years: the continuing interest of the teachers in the pupils.

On June 16 our youngest child doffs cap and gown after graduating in King Hall. For the first time in a quarter of a century we shall not be the parent of a

SAN CARLOS REALTY FIRST-HALF LL CHAMPS

First-Half Standings

San Carlos Realty	7	1
Boys' Town	6	2
Pilots Market	4	4
Sport Shop	3	4	1
Wilder & Jones	3	4	1
Turner & McEldowney	0	8

Steady pitching, nifty fielding, and power from the big bats of Jim Sparolini, Chris Laiolo, and Larry Little, carried Jack Miller's San Carlos Realty nine to the first-half championship of the Carmel Little League. The first-half ended Saturday, May 27 and the second round started yesterday evening with Wilder & Jones squaring off with Turner & McEldowney.

San Carlos clinched the first-half crown when it turned back the Sport Shop, 8 to 5, behind Larry Little's five-hit pitching. Jim Sparolini hit his fifth homer of the season to supply the bat power for the realtors. Daryl Dawson, smooth-fielding shortstop for San Carlos, turned in a fine game at shortstop and scored a pair of runs for the winners. Randy Newman and Lou Shone teamed up to throw a three-hitter at the realtors, but Sparolini's big blow was too much to overcome. Besides pitching a good game Shone also connected for a round-tripper to drive in two markers.

Newt Goodrich's Boys' Town gang made a gallant bid to overtake San Carlos when it notched wins over Turner & McEldowney and Pilots Market to finish one game behind the winners. The clothiers have played sound baseball all throughout the first-half and rate an even-up chance to win the next round. Boys' Town clipped Turner & McEldowney, 9 to 6, last Thursday as John Campbell and Eirk Danysh teamed up to pitch the victory. Richard Oleson topped all the hitters in this one with three blows in four chances at the plate. Gerald Pullen, Gary Newton, John Jacoby, and Oleson each scored two runs for the winners. In a makeup game with Art Carpenter's Pilots Market crew, Boys' Town finished in front, 5 to 3, on Richard Oleson's steady five-hit pitching and two-run homer by Gerald Pullen. Chuck Pearson sparked a Pilots rally in the sixth frame when he blasted a homer with two mates aboard to manufacture three runs for the grocers. However, the game was out of reach as Boys' Town picked up a pair in the first, two in the third, and got the insurance marker in the fifth.

Sport Shop and Wilder & Jones, deadlocked for fourth place in the league standings, battled to a 5-5 standoff in last Friday's make-up game. Darkness called a halt to the proceedings after the two clubs had battled for nine innings on even terms. Ed Kawanankoa and Joe Pistulka toiled on the mound for the plumbers while Greg Campbell, Gary Kearns and Lou Shone tossed the marathon distance for the Sports. Gaylord Swim and Kawanankoa topped the W&J hitters with two-for-four and each tallied a run for the plumbers. Rollie Champe, Mel Grimes, Rod Ruskell and Paul Culver each got a single for the Sports.

Tonight's Little League action finds Sport Shop tangling with Pilots Market. Friday night, San Carlos Realty goes against Boys' Town in a game which should have an important bearing on the second-half race. Pilots Market and first-half champs San Carlos renew their rivalry on Monday, and Tuesday's joust has the improved Wilder & Jones aggregation testing strong Boys' Town.

Little League Farm Team play on Saturday has Rockets going against Village Inn at 10 in the morning; Little Sparrows versus Derek Rayne at 12; and the American Legion-Rockets slated for 2 in the afternoon.

CIRCLING THE BASES

Carmel High's in-and-out varsity baseball team ended the season with a satisfying win over the strong Robert Louis Stevenson nine last Friday afternoon at the Pebble Beach diamond. The Buccaneers were rated one of the best prep teams in the tri-county area, holding victories over Hollister, Junipero, Menlo, and several of the best private schools in Northern California. Led by two brilliant pitching prospects, Rody Tognazzini and Tom Jones, RLS had compiled an 11-2 record before meeting the fired-up Padres in the season finale.

The first five innings of this one was a pitching duel between Tognazzini and Carmel's big Chris Wilkin. Carmel got on the board for a solo marker in the third, added two in the fifth, and put the game away with two more in the top of the seventh. Bud Cunningham, Carmel's All-League first-baseman, continued his powerful hitting in the win over the Bucs, stroking a 400-foot triple which was good for a round-tripper when the relay went astray at the plate. Evan Peskin, Padre senior second-baseman, had the top hitting average for the game, getting two blows in four chances and driving in two runs. Both Tognazzini and Wilkin pitched good enough to win most games. Wilkin gave up two hits, struck out eleven, and issued seven walks. Tognazzini also whiffed eleven, gave up four hits, and issued five free trips to first. Top hitter for RLS was their season captain, Mike Dillon, who stroked a pair of well-hit singles off Wilkin's southpaw slants.

Memorial Day's Babe Ruth League game at Monterey's El Estero Park had a Carmel junior-varsity flavor as Bob Holmes was the starting pitcher for the Pacific Grove Merchants and his Padre teammates Steve Johnson, Al Tegtmeier, Tim Brattin, Bob Moffatt, Dennis Spriggs, and Dennis Clark were vital cogs in the Carmel Merchant lineup. The Carmel lads turned in a 7-3 win over Pacific Grove as David Preve came through with a nifty relief performance to notch the win for Carmel. The Carmel Babe Ruth nine goes again next Saturday at 3 o'clock at El Estero where they clash with the Monterey Merchants.

Two established home-run hitters are setting the pace in the Carmel Little League batting chase with Jim Sparolini (5 homers) hitting .644 and Gerald Pullen (also 5 homers) stroking .545. Sparolini's power has been an important cog in the San Carlos Realty winning the first-half title while Pullen has sparked the second-place finish of the Boys' Town nine. Jack Argust, another Boys' Town slugger, is hitting .538 for third place, followed by Chris Laiolo (.500), Mark Snopkowski (.500), Bob Gamble (.466), Larry Little (.429), Jay Argust (.417), Gary Turner (.416), and Ronnie Parsons (.400). In the home-run derby, Lou Shone, Sport Shop, has 4, Tony Laiolo has 2, and Ty Seeders, Chuck Pearson, Gaylor Swim, and Gary Abersold each have one. Boys' Town (.291) has the best hitting team in the league and San Carlos tops the fielding statistics with .937.

CARMEL PONY LEAGUE OPENS PLAY ON JUNE 12

With tryouts, pre-season team workouts, and playing sites firmed up for the season, the Carmel Pony League, embracing only 13 and 14 year old players, is just about to get underway. Rated by many as the best of the teenage baseball programs, the Pony League offers equal competition for youngsters in a similar age bracket and is played on a diamond which meets the physical limits of the players. President Ralph Thompson has banded together a six-team circuit for this season's play, four teams being from Carmel, one from Carmel Valley, and one from the United States Naval Postgraduate School. The League will play its first four week's schedule at the Navy School Field with the possibility some games may be played at the Carmel High diamond. Commencing July 10, all games will be played at the Carmel Little League expanded field, with the season winding up about August 10.

When Perry McDonald took his first long ride up Carmel Valley, it was spring, 1887, and the rains had made such a quagmire of the road that the trip from Monterey to just past the present Farm Center took four hours by horse and cab.

Those were historic times. The evening before, back in Monterey the old Del Monte Hotel had burned down. "The ruins were still smoking and steaming in the rain when my father and I came past on the train," Mr. McDonald remembers.

That first ride to their new home was a real event for the 18-year-old Perry and his father, who were Canadians come to visit Perry's uncle, Philip McDonald, who was already an established valley dairyman.

"The only houses in the valley were those on the Hatton Ranch No. 1, the Hatton Ranch No. 2, the Frank Meadows home, the James Meadows home, the Berwick and Snively houses, my uncle's and a scattering of buildings on up the valley. More people lived along the river than along the road in those days.

"The first public building I recall was the Farm Center Hall, constructed later, after we'd lived here a while. It was built by a carpenter named Goldsmith, with the help of all the young people in the valley, who needed a place to hold dances."

After it was up, Perry and the other valley people apparently gave it plenty of hard service. All necessary meetings were held there. Dancing was of the country variety, to the enthusiastic music of accordion, fiddle and piano.

Perry went to work for his uncle on the dairy ranch helping care for the "300 cows in good times, falling off to maybe a hundred sometimes, but there were always quite a few to be milked."

Among Mr. McDonald's recollections are, of course, many other high points in the history of the valley: the laying of the first water line from San Clemente Dam to Monterey the year of his arrival, the coming of the first automobile to the community when Fred Rhodes took the great step and bought one, the "big flood" of 1938 when valley ranchers paddled around over their meadows on rafts and in row boats.

In 1897 Perry made some history of his own by pedalling a bicycle from his new home in the valley to his former home in Picton, Ontario, a 3,196-mile jaunt which he covered in 50 days. "I took so long because of bad weather," he says.

Considering that roads were

Art On The Peninsula

A unique triple one-man show will be featured at the Carmel Art Association galleries next week, when an exhibition of paintings by Mabel, Harold and Walter Landaker will go on display. The father-mother-son show will hang from June 7 through June 22. All three Landakers have been represented in numerous shows, both here and elsewhere, but this will be their first joint showing. Each paints in a distinctively different style.

Following the Landakers' show, the Gallery will feature a one-man exhibition of works by one of the Peninsula's outstanding non-professional painters, Dr. John Gratiot. This show will be hung June 22 and remain on view through the end of the month.

Throughout the month of June, the Art Association will present a new group show of works in various media by Association members. The June show has been hung by Joe Ataide and Joe Feuerborn.

The Coast Gallery at Big Sur announces a new series of seminars by the distinguished philosopher, author, and Asian scholar, Alan Watts. Title of Watts' discussion groups will be The Marvellous Labyrinth. Meetings will take place at the gallery on this Saturday at 3:00 and 8:00 o'clock, and Sunday at 11:00 and 3:00 o'clock. Arrangements for participation in the seminars should be made directly through Mr. Watts, 1807 Broadway, San Francisco.

Meanwhile, the Coast Gallery is showing new serigraphs by Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bradford (Dorothy Bowman), which will remain on view daily from 10:00 to 4:00 o'clock until next Thursday.

John Gardiner's Tennis Ranch in Carmel Valley will be the scene, June 11, for the second annual art show and auction to benefit Beacon House, residential facility operated by the Monterey Peninsula Council on Alcoholism.

Theme of the show is The American Mood in Art; judges are Abel Warshawsky, Linford Donovan, and Donald Teague, the latter of whom heads the art committee. The amateur exhibition will comprise three categories: representational oils; watercolors and other media; and abstract in any medium. Artists wishing to exhibit, compete or donate paintings may bring pictures to the Hospital House (adjacent to Peninsula Community Hospital), or call Mary Clark (MA 4-2256) or Virginia Frank (MA 4-2216) for pickup service. Paintings must be in the hands of the committee on or before June 4.

The tennis court show will include a non-juried exhibition of professional works (some for sale), door prizes, refreshments, and the art auction, to be conducted by auctioneer W. R. LaPorte. On the block will be original paintings and sketches donated by local amateur and professional artists.

Tickets for the show are available at local art galleries, and will also be on sale at the Tennis Ranch June 11.

Non-figurative oils by the California painter, Irving Marcus, are currently featured at the Feingarten Gallery on Lincoln Street. Mr. Marcus, who teaches at Sacramento State College, has exhibited in virtually every major museum and gallery in the country, including the Metropolitan, the Museum of Modern Art, the Smithsonian Institute, the Brooklyn Museum, Chicago Art Center, Walker Art Center and the San Francisco Museum. The show will be on display until June 9.

Also at the Feingarten are lithographs by Antoni Haska, one of the leading contemporary artists in Poland. A professor at the University of Krakow, Haska is noted as a muralist, writer and filmmaker as well as a painter and printmaker.

Starting June 10, the Feingarten will offer a new group show by local, national and international artists.

Monterey Peninsula College's fifth annual student art show will open Tuesday in the MPC library gallery. Over 125 works by students from all classes taught by art department chairman Richard Bibler and instructor Robert Nelson will be on display until June 14. Some of the paintings have been reproduced in color in MPC's 1961 creative arts publication, "e.g.," which went on sale this week.

Wilderness Of The West

A monthly column
By C. Edward Graves

28—TWO WILDERNESS BOOKS.

This month I shall turn my column into a book review of two very similar, yet different, books that throw a good deal of light on wilderness values. Both of them are adventure books about canoe trips down a river. Both are published by Alfred Knopf, Inc., a firm to which conservationists are indebted for many fine publications.

The first is entitled, The Lonely Land. The author is Sigurd Olson, a good friend of mine who was president of the National Parks Association when I was serving as its Western Representative. He is well-known to the reading public for his two previous books, The Singing Wilderness and Listening Point. To conservationists he is famous as the very active protagonist of the Quetico-Superior Wilderness on the lakeland border between Minnesota and Canada. Very largely as a result of the efforts that he spearheaded, President Truman set an air ceiling over this area, so that it is now free from commercial air-borne invasion. Thus it is a true wilderness, reached only be water transportation—one of the very few such areas in the country.

Sig's newest book, The Lonely Land, tells about a canoe trip that he took with five companions down the Churchill River in Canada. This river rises in Saskatchewan and flows generally in an eastern and northeastern direction, finally reaching Hudson Bay, but Sig's party followed it down stream for only part of its course, transferring to the Sturgeon Weir River and ending their trip at Cumberland House, the oldest Hudson Bay Company post in that part of Canada, on the Saskatchewan River.

Sig's companions were all prominent Canadians, government officials and business men. There were three canoe loads of them and the book is largely a story of their personal adventures in shooting the various rapids, fighting wind storms on the lakes and making camp under sometimes trying circumstances. Their route followed that of the early French-Canadian voyagers in the fur trade of the 18th and early 19th centuries. Sig is very much interested in the history of these voyagers and there are numerous references to their activities and quotations from the journals of their leaders.

Most of all, though, it is a wilderness story through a land where only a few Indians and Hudson Bay Company officials have their habitations. There are few authors today who have such a genuine and comprehending love of unadulterated natural beauty. Camp had always to be pitched on a westward-facing shore where the sunset could be enjoyed. This was their great compensation for the long hours of battling the rapids and the winds and portaging heavy loads around the dangerous stretches. The peacefulness at the end of the day more than repaid them for the hardships they endured.

His feeling is well expressed at the end of the book where he writes: "I knew there were some things that would never be dimmed by distance or time, compounded of values that would not be forgotten: the joy and challenge of the wilderness, the sense of being part of the country and of an era that was gone, the freedom we had known, silence, timelessness, beauty, companionship and loyalty, and the feeling of fullness and completion that was ours at the end."

The second book is entitled, Good-bye to a River. The author is John Graves (no relation). It is a story of another canoe trip, this time a solo one, down a portion of the Brazos River in central Texas in the vicinity of Fort Worth. The author is a teacher of creative writing in Texas Christian University and is a native of that part of Texas.

In 1957 he heard that the river would be dammed, drowning much of it that he remembered, and he decided to take this farewell trip. His feeling will be shared in the coming decades by large numbers of Californians whose three wildest and most beautiful rivers, the Klamath, the Trinity and the Eel, the scheduled by State water planners to be entirely submerged by reservoirs. Many conservationists wonder whether atomic energy and salt water conversion will be developed rapidly enough to save a few stretches of these rivers from their undeserved fate.

The author has a picturesquely individual style of writing, original sometimes to extremes. Like Sig Olson, he is greatly interested in the human history of the region through which he is canoeing, especially the early struggles between the Comanche Indians, who called themselves The People, and the whites. The story thus becomes a mixture of the personal adventures of himself and the six-months-old dachshund who was his companion, and the history of the adjoining country with excellent characterizations of the characters whom he met.

It is not a wilderness book in the same sense as Sig Olson's but the author appreciates solitude and quietude and remoteness, three of the most important qualities of wilderness. His feeling is well expressed in these two paragraphs:

"We don't know much about solitude these days, nor do we want to. A crowded world thinks that aloneness is always loneliness, and that to seek it is perversion. Maybe so. Man is a colonial creature and owes most of his good fortune to his ability to stand his fellows' feet on his corns and the musk of their armpits in his nostrils. Company comforts him; those around him share his dreams and bear the slings and arrows with him . . .

"But there have always been some of the others, the willful loners. And out alone for a time yourself, you have some illusion of knowing why they are as they are. You hear the big inhuman pulse they listen for, by themselves . . ."

His nostalgia is well camouflaged in the book and he enjoyed the trip immensely, much more than he would in a motorboat on the reservoir that may already be in the making, fishing for fish that have been planted there by taxpayers' money for his pleasure. There is never any substitute for wildness.

C. M. Menzies

Charles Merle Menzies, 86, a resident of this area for over 22 years, died May 27 at his home in Carmel Highlands following a lengthy illness.

A native of Portland, Oregon, Mr. Menzies was born January 7, 1875. Prior to moving here he lived for many years in Stockton, where he was proprietor of an automobile agency. A camp in Calaveras County was named in his honor following his donation of 160 acres there to the Girl Scouts.

Mr. Menzies was an honorary member of the Monterey Rotary Club, and also affiliated with Hawthorne Masonic Lodge of Portland, Scottish Rite of Stockton and Ben Ali Shrine of Sacramento.

He is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Lulu Strebin of Gresham, Oregon, and Mrs. Laura Bretscher of Oregon City, and a brother Arthur Menzies of Portland.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon in Stockton. The Paul Mortuary is in charge of local arrangements.

In Carmel They All But Vote

By Marie Rowland, Animal Reporter

If you missed the Dog Show this year, put it down as a must for next year. Even behind the scenes it is as exciting as Barnum's Circus, less dangerous, much more healthy; you'll come away emotionally replete.

Don't believe all the stories you might have heard about fiercely competitive dog showers. You take the Frank Grovers of Carmel Valley. Because they are members of the Del Monte Kennel Club sponsoring the show, what did they do? They left at home in their Barrierdobe's Kennel on Marquard Road, none other than that magnificent Champion Barrierdobe's Adventurer, their "sure-to-win" at any show Doberman Pinscher. Why? Because, explained the generous-hearted Grovers, they wanted some of their friends who came from far off places with their Dobermen to have a chance!

Just one month over from Ireland is Lingrove Laddie, the most adorable white and tan smooth fox terrier, who now belongs to Carmel Valley's O. M. Pick. The Pick kennel boasts Smart Alec of Milford Haven, the fox terrier who came off with a first prize at Sunday's show.

"Otter . . . a carnivorous mammal of the sub-family Lutrinae of the weasel family (mastelidae) . . ." so says the Encyclopedia America. Rather dull?

You place that "carnivorous mammal" in a small cove at Point Lobos in the Highlands in the proximity of a picnic ground where a group of patients, on crutches, in wheel chairs (from Monterey County Hospital) has assembled under the direction of Ranger Bill Coleman. Then what do you have? Drama.

Bill has been forest ranger at Point Lobos for five and a half years now and has learned quite a bit about otters. He loves all the animal and sea life that abounds at Lobos, but that comical little mammal that uses its webbed feet like human hands has so captured his fancy that Bill has turned out a children's book on the California Sea Otter. It is in the publisher's hands now.

Recently Bill joined the group of Volunteers who entertain the shut-ins at the County Hospital. One day a week he has been commuting to Salinas to show his nature slides and movies. Much to his surprise he learned that many of the men and women patients had never seen Lobos, much less a sea otter. In fact, some of them hadn't been outside the hospital for years.

With the help of Lois B. Baughman of Pacific Grove, head of the Volunteers, Bill began organizing a caravan for the Highlands. A few days ago it took off, three station-wagonloads of patients, nurses and picnic lunch.

When they left the hospital that morning, Bill recalls, there was a listlessness about the patients that frightened him. He wondered if he were doing the right thing. By the time he had checked through Lobos gate (for free) he began to feel that his idea possibly had merit. The patients were perking up. When they reached the picnic grounds they were like children on their first adventure, eager to see everything.

First the hot luncheon. Then, with the help of the nurses, Bill directed his handicapped adventurers to the shore of the cove where he knew some sea otters were frolicking that very day.

"That's when I knew my idea had been an inspiration," explained the ranger.

They watched a mother otter lie on her back with a rock on her chest, and using her webbed hands to break open a shell on that rock and feed her baby . . . well, you should have seen them . . . you'd think they were witnessing a miracle! The radiance of those patients' faces was really something!"

Bill says that was one of the most exciting days of his years at Lobos. He hopes to be able to use the patient caravan idea again, frequently, if not with himself, then perhaps with others who will volunteer to be guides.

Mrs. Laidlaw Williams, wife of the Carmel Highlands ornithologist, is usually the one who answers the phone in their home, should you ever put in an S.O.S. about a wounded bird or fallen squab. Many of these calls she tries to answer herself in her wifely way, thus saving her husband more time for his pressing work.

So many queries go into the Williams' home that she is almost afraid to let folks know how helpful she can be. We hope she will forgive us for singing her praises just a little.

Perhaps the largest number of appeals come from the people who have found in their patio a baby wild pigeon fallen from its nest in a tall pine. These appeals come any time of the year, all the year, Mrs. Williams explains, because the wild pigeons mate from early in the year to as late as October.

The wild pigeon has only one squab at a time. You'd imagine she'd take better care of one offspring than to let it go tumbling out of the nest. The unvarnished truth about wild pigeons is this: they do a lot of coo-coo-ing but build a very flimsy nest . . . their heads are so full of romance that half the time their nest is not secure enough to hold the mother and a bouncing baby squab. The squab frequently loses . . . falls before it can fly.

Consequently the need for foster parents who excitedly call the Williams for the squab "formula." We might save a few calls by telling you here that you need dry powdered milk, pablum, wheat germ, hard boiled eggs . . . as a starter! And oh yes, make a trip to the drug store to get a red (it must be red) ear syringe from which you'll cut the neck, making a hole the size and roundness of a wild pigeon mother's open craw. Unlike other birds, who put their beaks down the craws of their young to feed them, the pigeon young must put its beak down the craw of the mother bird for the "pigeon milk" she nurtures. Interesting?

Mrs. Williams has raised two dozen baby wild pigeons herself; she should know a lot about them. Add to this scores of other birds, young, deserted and wounded ones that have fallen into her lap and you'll get an idea of her true worth in this nature-loving community of ours.

When we called the other day she had just returned from her neighbors', the Wally McGregors. She had gone to their rescue to help them liberate a frantic Hermit Thrush that had found its way inside their house and was beating itself to death against the windows trying to find a way out. Yes, she rescued him!

Korla Pandit, known as The Mystic Of The Organ, is playing at the new Safeway Store in the Carmel Rancho Shopping Center this afternoon and again this evening, 7:00 - 9:00 o'clock.

Mr. Pandit was born in New Delhi, India and was a musically gifted child. His father, a member of one of India's first families, and his European-born mother, nurtured the talent, allowing it to expand and ripen in an international atmosphere. Journeying to Europe, England, and eventually to America, Korla Pandit continued his formal study, finishing at the University of Chicago.

The professional career of Korla Pandit has been a succession of impressive "firsts" in concert and television presentations, nationally as well as locally, in Hollywood and New York.

He is responsible for several innovations in organ construction and interpretations including Indian drum and percussion effects previously untried. His greatest success has been in television. Mr. Pandit gave the first all-musical TV program in Hollywood in 1949 and his one-hour weekly show in California, won him countless admirers and many awards. He has also performed in churches and temples on numerous occasions.

Corday Hyman

Corday Hyman of Hatton Fields died May 20 at a local hospital following a brief illness. He was 73.

A veteran of both World Wars, Mr. Hyman was formerly employed as a railroad telegrapher. Since his retirement, he made his home here at Mesa and Atherton Drives with his wife, Celia.

Mr. Hyman was born in Hymanville, South Carolina, March 21, 1888. He was affiliated with Tompkins Lodge 471, F&AM, of Stapleton, New York, the Scottish Rite chapter of New Orleans, Carmel American Legion Post 512, and the Order of Railroad Telegraphers.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by a number of nieces and cousins in South Carolina and Georgia.

Funeral services were held yesterday morning at the Mission Mortuary with the Reverend Perry Swan and members of Carmel Lodge No. 680, F&AM, officiating. Burial will take place this morning at the Golden Gate National Cemetery at San Bruno.

This morning the first unit of Carmel Rancho Shopping Center opened for business. Situated at the intersection of Highway One and Carmel Valley Road, the first group of buildings contains a Safeway Store, Carmel Rancho Pharmacy and a Union Oil service station. In the near future a hardware and patio supply store will open in another building in the first unit.

Carmel resident Sam S. Smith, is the developer of Carmel Rancho, also president and general manager of Radio KRML, the radio station located on Carmel Rancho property.

Draver Wilson, AIA, designed the center, cooperating with Mr. Smith's demands to keep the development in harmony with the Carmel atmosphere.

Another Carmel resident, building contractor Joseph B. Fratessa, constructed Carmel Rancho. George C. Bestor of Carmel was the engineer for the project.

When completed, Carmel Rancho Shopping Center will present a park-like appearance, according to the plans for the development. The first cluster of buildings is constructed around a patio centered by a lawn. Plants in raised beds, walled with native Carmel rock, are a feature of the landscaping. The exterior walls of the buildings are of the same stone and decorative cement blocks. The sloping roofs, supported by laminated wood beams, have been designed to give the buildings long low silhouettes. Trees have been planted to shade and screen parking lots. All lights are hooded to prevent sky glare. The interiors of the buildings are air conditioned and modern in every detail.

The first unit of Carmel Rancho Shopping Center covers five acres. One and two-tenths acres are covered by buildings, the balance devoted to parking and planting.

Construction of the second unit in the Carmel Rancho development is expected to start shortly, Mr. Smith says. This unit will provide a number of speciality and service shops.

Dick Towle Manages New Safeway Store In Carmel Rancho

Dick Towle, manager of the new Safeway Store which opened today in Carmel Rancho shopping center at the entrance to Carmel Valley, has most recently been manager of a Safeway store in San Francisco.

He began his association with Safeway in 1945 as a part-time food clerk in the Seattle Division of the company while still attending school. After finishing school, Mr. Towle continued full-time with Safeway and completed his training in grocery and produce operations. He also served as assistant manager and relief store manager in the Safeway Seattle Division.

In 1952 he was appointed a Safeway training instructor. The next year he was promoted to the position of employe-public relations manager in the Seattle Division. After two years in this job he was again promoted and became training section manager of the Central Employe Relations Department.

In July of last year, Dick Towle joined the Safeway San Francisco Division for additional experience in retail operations and held several responsible assignments in the Safeway organization before being appointed a San Francisco store manager late in 1960. On May 21 he was appointed manager of the Carmel Rancho Safeway Store.

He and his wife, Pat, have three children, Terry, Nancy and Robert.

Dick Moore, Ten Years Mayor Of Tulelake, Opens Pharmacy

All his efforts are directed towards giving the best possible service to his customers, Mr. Moore declares.

Mr. Moore, born and raised in San Francisco, is a graduate of the University of California. He has spent many active years in community service, having served on the city council of Tulelake for 12 years, ten of these years as mayor. He was a school board member in Tulelake for nine years and three of these years served as chairman of the board. He was president of the Chamber of Commerce and Business Men's Association in Tulelake for several terms, served on the Siskiyou County Probation Board for three years and was a charter member and past president of the Tulelake Rotary Club.

They have a son, Richard, now serving with the U.S. Navy; a son, Dennis, who attends Sunset School; a son-in-law and daughter, Mr. & Mrs. Marvin Rose of Tulelake, and three grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Moore have resided in Carmel Meadows for three years.

INTRODUCING

THE CARMEL RANCHO SHOPPING CENTER

A Beautiful Blend of Charm and Convenience

History will be made June 1, when the first unit of the Carmel Rancho Shopping Center, located at Highway 1 and Carmel Valley Road, Carmel, opens for business. Opening at that time will be a unique Safeway Store, the Carmel Rancho Pharmacy and an outstanding Union Oil Service Station. In addition, a complete hardware and patio supply store will be opened in the very near future, in this first group.

Developed by Sam S. Smith, a resident of Carmel, and President and General Manager of Radio KRML, Carmel's radio station. Designed by Draver Wilson, AIA, built by Joseph B. Fratessa, Monterey Peninsula Contractor, engineered by George C. Bestor, Carmel, the center when finally completed will present a park-like appearance with extensive patio and planting areas around the store buildings. Much of the picturesque beauty of the Carmel area has been captured in the new buildings through the use of decorative blocks and stone in construction of the exterior walls. The sloping roofs supported by laminated wood beams have been designed to give the buildings a long low silhouette effect.

The building interiors will be modern in every detail and all stores will be air conditioned.

The first unit which opens June 1, encompasses approximately five acres, of which one and two tenth acres of the five are covered by buildings and the balance devoted to planting and parking. Construction of the second unit is expected to start shortly. This unit will provide a number of speciality and service shops.

Music On The Peninsula

Owing to Miss Lindsay-Oliver's absence in Berkeley last Sunday, her student, Ora Fallis, substituted for her with the following report of the Musica Viva Concert.

The eighth Musica Viva Concert at the Steinbeck Theatre last Sunday afternoon presented Donald Stenberg, baritone and Joann Crossman, pianist, both from San Francisco, before a sizable and appreciative audience.

Mr. Sternberg, accompanied by Miss Crossman at the piano, opened the program with Schumann's Dichterliebe revealing a resonant baritone voice ideally suited for singing German lieder.

Miss Crossman performed MacDowell's Fourth Sonata, Opus 59, with strength and beauty, delicately shading volume from tenderness to stirring crescendoes. The first movement, With great power and dignity, was MacDowell's best in the Sonata.

Mr. Sternberg returned to sing "Eri tu che machiavi," from Verdi's Masked Ball. The aria was sung with flawless conception and executed with restraint. This added to the effectiveness of the aria. He followed with a group of songs by Sidney Homer, an American composer and contemporary of MacDowell.

Miss Crossman's rapid and powerful Chopin Scherzo in B minor was followed by Chopin's delicate and moving Etude in E major. This was performed with an astute awareness not often shown. She concluded with Bartok's From the Diary of a Fly and Prokofief's March from The Love of Three Oranges.

The last group was Mr. Sternberg singing the lusty and satirical ballad Charlie Rutlage by Ives, and three songs by Copland. These four songs brought a salty conclusion to an enjoyable recital.

Both Mr. Sternberg and Miss Crossman were recalled for individual encores.—O.F.

THIRD CHAMBER CONCERT SUNDAY AT NEPENTHE

Third in the 1961 series of informal concerts by the San Francisco Chamber Players will be presented at Nepenthe this Sunday. Two performances will be given, in the afternoon at 4:30 o'clock and in the evening at 8:30 o'clock.

Featured work on the program will be the "Trout" Quintet by Schubert for violin, viola, cello, bass and piano, and a Mozart flute quartet. Soloist in the latter work will be Raymond Fabrizio of Garrapata Creek, first flutist with the Monterey County Symphony and a former player with the San Francisco Symphony and Little Symphony.

FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

By Ruth Galvin Thornburg

"The first and great commandment is, Don't let them scare you. For the men who are trying to do that to us are scared themselves. They will tell you that there is a hazard in the freedom of the mind, and of course there is, as in any freedom. In trying to think right you run the risk of thinking wrong. But there is no hazard at all, no uncertainty, in letting somebody else tell you what to think; that is sheer damnation." So spoke Elmer Davis while reporting by radio during the troublous times of the McCarthy hearings. So he always thought and so he acted, and thus he created a place of calm consideration in one of this country's periods of confusion and perturbation. The story of Elmer Davis' life and works is told by Roger Burlingame in his new book called Don't Let Them Scare You.

Those of us who rejoiced in an old Ford car to rattle around in during the golden days of our youth will welcome a chance to recall those gladsome times by reading Tin Lizzie by Philip Stern. Here is pictured and told the story of the Ford car from its earliest days. Those were really the days! Riding high as a rajah on an elephant, we toured the countryside, secure in the knowledge that if the gasoline ran out, a handy two quarts tucked away in the back, would take us back to town no matter how far out we were. The fabulous model T Ford!

How to Run a Million into a Shoestring was written by Carl Winston, the man who also wrote The Royal Road to Ruin. This is one of our few paperbacks because once you've read it you've read it, and not everybody wants to anyway. The chapter headings will give you some idea. Some of them are Look Older, Live Shorter, The Positive Results of Amazing Thinking, Let Tensions Get You Down and Keep You There, and son on. All in fun.

In case you are impatiently awaiting the Bob Cummings book on health and good looks, you might be interested in filling in the time with the new Gaylord Hauser, which is entitled Mirror, Mirror on the Wall. It is full of sound advice, with recipes for natural cosmetics, which might make us all healthier and better looking and certainly would be inexpensive to try. One pungent remark he makes is that if ladies would gossip less there would be fewer lines around their mouths.

A Calabash of Diamonds is the story of a treasure hunt in Africa carried out by the author, Margaret Lane, and her husband. They failed to find any treasure, but they did have an exciting trip, and took photographs which illustrate the book.

There are ten new novels and other goodies. The tourist season is upon us when good Carmelites head for the hills. Take along a good book and enjoy yourself.

Bay School, pictured above, as it looked shortly after it was built. The little red schoolhouse has been in continuous use for 81 years, first as an elementary school, now as Carmel Parent Nursery School.

On Saturday the Carmel Parent Nursery School will hold its annual Bay Day festival starting at 11:00 o'clock in the morning, ending at 4:00 o'clock in the afternoon.

The public is invited to Bay Day, also all Bay School graduates, both during the time is was a grade school and since it became a preschool age nursery school. Mrs. Rosa Doner is director of the nursery school which is operated as a project of the Carmel Unified School District.

Barbecued hot dogs, beans and salad will be sold for lunch. There will be a bake sale, also a white elephant sale. Carnival-type amusements will be provided for children and adults. All proceeds from Bay Day will be used for the nursery school program in which parents, both fathers and mothers, take an active part.

Enrollment of future pupils will also be part of the Bay Day program. Attendance is limited to 25 pupils each semester. Chairmen in charge of Bay Day are Mrs. Russell Williams, Mrs. Donald Criley, Mrs Donald Smythe, Mrs. Peter Wangoe and Mrs. Robert Diessen.

Eighty-one years ago Bay School was established by pioneer residents in a ranch building loaned to them. Later the building was purchased for one dollar and the site of the school for four dollars. In 1891 John Martin, who pioneered the Mission Ranch was a Bay School trustee. Among his nine children who attended Bay School are Mrs. Robert Leidig of Carmel, Roy Martin of Carmel Valley and Carmel Martin of Monterey.

Mrs. Mary Goold of Carmel still winces when she remembers the scratching of pencils on slates during her attendance at Bay School. Joe Hitchcock of Carmel Valley walked all the way from Pebble Beach to attend classes. Mrs. L. J. Hudson and Mrs. T. F. Riley of Point Lobos also were Bay School pupils.

The late Fred Feliz of Carmel Valley taught at Bay School, also Mrs. Julia Breinig of Monterey.

In 1952 residents of Bay School District voted to join the Carmel Unified School District. Two years later its existence as a grade school ended.

Picnics, folk dancing and parties were an important part of the early days of Bay School. The Carmel Parent Nursery School is carrying on this tradition with their Bay Day on Saturday. Parents of the present pre-school age pupils hope former graduates will come back to the little schoolhouse for another day of fun and remembrances on Saturday.

Arena Blanca Poetry Winners

Final dinner meeting of the year was held May 25 at the First Methodist Church in Pacific Grove by the Arena Blanca Chapter of the California Federation of Chaparral Poets.

In the monthly poetry contest, Olive Beidleman won first prize, Blanche Moke second, Alice Erbit third, and Arthur Wild fourth. First honorable mention went to Catherine Ramsey, second to Bernice Minarik, and third to Hascal Stewart. The contest was judged by Lida Pringle Stussie, second vice-president of the California Federation of Chaparral Poets.

Olivia Young, outgoing president, read the winning poems and presented the awards at the dinner. In an after-dinner speech, the Reverend Rolfe J. Conrad shared some of his feelings about poetry, saying that both poetry and religion are searching for ultimate truth and that poetry is able to say things that can't be expressed in any other form.

Mrs. Young and Mrs. Moke gave reports on the Chaparral Poets' State Convention, held May 20 in Los Angeles. In the state contests, Mrs. Young won first prize for a sonnet as well as honorable mention, and Mrs. Moke received two honorable mentions. A third local winner was Peggy Hawkins of the Santa Catalina School, who took fourth prize in the state contest for senior high school students. Earlier this year Miss Hawkins won second prize in the Monterey Peninsula students' contest sponsored by Arena Blanca and the Pine Cone.

Arena Blanca's new officers installed at the meeting by Mrs. Beidleman, are Blanche Moke, president, Hascal Stewart, first vice-president, Catherine Ramsey, second vice-president, and Bernice Minarik, secretary-treasurer.

The first Carmelo School was built in 1859 on land deeded to the then Carmelo School District by James Meadows. The original structure was still in use in 1914 when the above picture was taken. The teacher at Carmelo in 1914 was Rose Nason, now Mrs. William Rhyner of Corral de Tierra. A former Carmelo pupil, she taught eight grades in one room, pictured at right. Her pupils included Hatton Martin, Joe Onesimo, Leo and Ora Vasquez, Alice Meadows and Irene Wolter.

The first Carmelo School building was destroyed by fire and replaced by a second building on the same site in 1918. Later a second room was added to the school, situated across the Carmel Valley Road from the present Carmelo School. For the past few years the second building has been occupied by Carmelo kindergarten classes. Next year it will be operated by the County Board of Education as a special education facility. Pupils needing special instruction will be brought to the school from all over the Peninsula.

Kindergarten classes will be conducted across the road in the new Carmelo School, enlarged for the 1961-62 school year by the addition of four classrooms, making a total of eight classrooms for an expected enrollment of over 140 pupils. There are 130 pupils attending Carmelo School this year. Only kindergarten through sixth grade pupils are taught at Carmelo which will have a new principal next year, also a new kindergarten teacher. The present principal, Richard Baron, is resigning to take a similar position in a Sacramento County school. The new kindergarten teacher will be Miss Enid Palmerlee.

Former Carmelo School teachers include Mrs. Everett Smith of Carmel and Mrs. Frank Hatton, now living in Southern California. Mrs. Hatton taught at Carmelo for 15 years.

Pupils now attending Carmelo School include descendants of the families who built the first school as a community project. Residents of the Valley 102 years ago donated lumber, nails and hours of labor for the first school building. Among Carmel Valley residents who attended the first and second Carmelo Schools are members of the Wilder, McKenzie, Williams, McClurg, Tomasini, Coleman, Selfridge, Meadows and Martin families.

On January 14, 1958, residents of Carmelo School District voted to join the Carmel Unified School District.

Senator Farr Explains Benefits From Bill To Hike Car License Fees

The city of Carmel would receive an estimated $12,803 next year in additional funds for city streets, under the terms of Senate Bill 1294 (Collier) which was passed by the State Senate last Thursday and is now before the Assembly.

Senator Fred S. Farr (D., Carmel) announced that the bill's proposal for a 50% increase in the motor vehicle license fee, or "in lieu" tax, would bring to Monterey County an estimated $652,785 in added revenues for road and street purposes, of which $277,891 would go to individual cities.

The bill would raise the "in lieu" tax from the present two percent to three percent of vehicle value, an average increase of $7.24 per year per automobile. The bill is permissive, and affirmative action by the county supervisors and city councils would be required before the new tax became effective in any given county.

The proposal, Senator Farr said, arose from a statewide study of county road and city street deficiencies which showed that revenues anticipated from present sources during the next ten years would fall short of actual needs by an average $320 million a year. Increasing the license fee would be one means of narrowing the gap, producing an estimated $60 million the first year. Senator Farr said he had received strong expressions of support for the bill from the Monterey County Board of Supervisors and from city councils within the county.

Each county and its cities would receive the additional revenues paid by their residents, less the state's collection costs. Provision is made for negotiation between counties and cities of the division of revenues, but a standard formula is also offered. Under that formula, Monterey County's share of the first year's receipts would be $374,894. Salinas would receive the biggest city's share, $80,945, Monterey would be next with $63,225, and others would receive proportionate revenues according to population and assessed valuation.

SYMPHONY WILL ELECT NEW OFFICERS JUNE 7

Annual meeting of the Monterey County Symphony Association will take place Thursday night at 8:00 o'clock at Carmel High School. Location of the meeting will be Room 24 rather than the Music Room as previously announced.

All Symphony Association and orchestra members, as well as season ticket holders, are urged to attend the meeting. Several new directors will be elected to the board, which in turn will elect officers for the coming year following the general meeting.

Orchestra conductor Ronald Ondrejka will be present at the meeting to discuss plans for the 1961-62 season and other projects planned by the association.

CONTEMPORARY SPANISH FILM TOMORROW NIGHT AT MPC

Calle Mayor, Spanish film which won the Critics' Prize at the 1956 International Film Festival in Venice, will be shown tomorrow night at 8:00 o'clock in the Monterey Peninsula College armory. There is no charge for admission.

The show tomorrow evening will be the final presentation of the MPC Theatre Arts Group before the start of the summer session.

Calle Mayor, released here under the title The Lovemaker, was written and directed by the controversial and promising young filmmaker, Juan Bardem. The film, which concerns a brutally tragic love affair experienced by a quiet spinster in a provincial Spanish town, stars the American actress Betsy Blair (remembered for her role in Marty), who received a special citation at the Venice Festival for her portrayal. Also in the international cast are Jose Suarez, Yves Massard, Dora Doll and Lila Kedrova. The film is in Spanish with English subtitles.

REACTIONS ON LOOKING AT THE OXFORD BOOK OF ENGLISH VERSE: AN OLD SCHOOLBOOK

Orestes and a monkey shared the classroom.
The barrel organ ground out tunes below.
Sunray in storm our laughter broke the gloom.
The reader's voice kept on; the epic's flow
Lifted us over swells that mounted higher;
Murder led to murder to matricide;
As horror flooded men's and gods' desire
We fled the comber, panting, terrified.

How the stern chorus rang; awed I can feel
The thrill and stab of pain; trivia dissipate.
Comic or tragic, time with closing seal
Leaves blanks or gilded names among the great.

In English Verse our love of Greece is stored;
With comic, tragic not in disaccord.

—PHOEBE W. HOFFMAN

SUMMER SERENADE

A thousand voices sang,
Bright and tranquil notes —
A thousand pipes accompanied —
Coming from bird-like throats.

Out of the darkness it came —
A summer serenade,
I could not see the singers
Nor the instruments they played.

There was the fiddling cricket,
A katy-did's soft purr,
The locusts in the meadow —
A million insects' whirr.

Softly at first, and then
Continuous crescendo,
That lulled me off to sleep
In a lost diminuendo.

—MARIE CLARK MILLER

INDIAN NEIGHBOR
(An Observation Piece)

In drought and storm he plods the woodland trail
And plows his barrow through the matted grass.
Pants in the sun; creeps forward in a gale.
He and his dogs sniff warnings as they pass.

Groaning, his barrow halts; curs rush about.
A small procession bears wood to the bin;
Barks greet each armload on their weaving route—
A ceremonial dance of going round and in.

They fill the hours in happy, foolish wise,
For dogs and man no crushing city sprawls
To mar fresh scents; old but still youthful eyes
Search for new sights; ears tune in faroff calls.

No clock or change disturbs their work or doze;
The world roars by as eyelids poise to close.

—PHOEBE W. HOFFMAN

Letters . . .

Carmel, California
May 15, 1961

The Mayor and City Council
Carmel-by-the-Sea
Gentlemen,

The following resolution in favor of a room tax was adopted by the Board of Directors of the Carmel Citizens Committee at its meeting May 15, 1961:

Whereas, The cost of government, like everything else, is increasing and requires more City revenue, including that needed for capital outlay, such as the purchase of lots for automobile parking and other purposes, and for the periodic replacement of worn out equipment, and

Whereas, Tourists and visitors using our streets and other public facilities should contribute more to their upkeep, now therefore be it

Resolved, That among other new sources of revenue needed to meet the increasing costs of government and prevent undue increase in property taxes, we advocate a room or bed tax.

Very Truly
The Board of Directors
Carmel Citizens Committee
by C. W. Fisher

Editor's note: Last week Carmel city council moved to draft an ordinance establishing a room tax for all hotels and motels within the city.

P.O. Box 3314
Carmel, California
May 22, 1961

The Editor of The Pine Cone:

So, one of the last outposts of beauty on Ocean Avenue is now threatened with destruction; and that by the Library Board.

How we Carmelites have loved, and love, the charming gardens surrounding the library, and how earnestly we plead that they be delivered from an unforgivable ravishing!

Very truly yours,
Catherine Eastwood

Editor's note: The above letter refers to the possible destruction of the garden in front of the Harrison Memorial library if the library is enlarged as suggested by library trustees at a joint meeting of the library board and city council on May 10. At that time library trustees proposed establishing a branch library for juveniles. Councilmen suggested asking fees for library use from students living outside the city limits, also asking the Carmel Unified School District to contribute library space or funds.

Mrs. Ethelwyn Cocke telephoned the Pine Cone to state her objections to any destruction of the library garden.

"The library board should go to any length to save the charming garden spot with its casual village atmosphere," she said.

Mrs. Cocke advocates purchasing property to the north of the present library site for any expansion and approves a tax raise to obtain this land and the buildings on it.

She suggests waiting for a year until the value of the Austin James' legacy to the library is established. In the meantime, some "makeshift" arrangement could carry the library through; possibly an arrangement with the school district for juvenile library facilities.

A beloved Carmel landmark will return to life Sunday afternoon when the reconstructed Forest Theater will be the scene for an al fresco "Pops" Concert by the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra.

The 2:30 o'clock Pops Concert will be the first such event to be presented by the much-praised orchestra and its resident conductor, Ronald Ondrejka, who concluded the regular symphony season May 16 with a brilliant concert at Sunset Auditorium. At that time, it was announced that Ondrejka will continue with the orchestra here for the 1961-62 season.

Conductor Ondrejka has planned a varied program of colorful, lighthearted music in keeping with the outdoor informality of the Forest Theater and intended for family enjoyment. Selections to be performed by the orchestra are: Overture to Die Fledermaus by Strauss; L'Arlesienne Suite No. 1 by Bizet; Espana Rhapsody by Chabrier; Arabian Dance from the Nutcracker Suite by Tschaikowski; Intermezzo from Goyescas by Granados; The Emperor Waltz by Strauss; and three dances from The Bartered Bride by Smetana.

The Sunday concert is being presented by the Symphony Association in cooperation with the Carmel Arts Commission as a gala prelude to Forest Theater Sundays, to be officially inaugurated by the Commission on June 18. Continuing each Sunday afternoon throughout the summer, a different show will be offered without charge on the Forest Theater stage, now in the process of repair and renovation.

All seats for the concert will be unreserved. Admission will be $1.00 for adults, 50c for children, students, and enlisted servicemen. All proceeds of the concert will go toward the orchestra's scholarship fund, which will enable a young musician to undertake advanced instrumental training. Tickets will be available at the Forest Theater box-office on Sunday, or may be purchased at the Symphony box-office in the Browse-Around Music Shop in Carmel.

The symphony concert and the planned Sundays will restore the Forest Theater to its traditional role as a unique, informal showcase for local talent. Emphasis in all planned programs will be on the enjoyment and participation of the community, rather than tourists. All entertainment will be contributed, including the talent of the 85 members of the symphony orchestra and conductor Ondrejka.

Anticipating a long and leisurely train trip east is Quila Conway, who plans to leave Sunday for a two-week visit in New York and Connecticut.

Mrs. Conway's first destination will be Noroton, Connecticut, where she will spend several days with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Buehr. Mrs. Buehr is a fashion artist, and has her studio in New York City.

In New York City, Mrs. Conway will also visit her brother, Kendall Goodwyn, editor of Popular Science Magazine, and, if time permits, take in one or two Broadway shows. She will make her return trip to the Peninsula by jet.

Mrs. Carter To Hawaii

Mrs. Marion Carter, who customarily divides her time betwen her home in Burlingame and her painting studio here, has left for a three-week holiday in Hawaii. Prior to her departure aboard the Lurline, friends gathered in her cabin for a shipboard bon voyage party. Among those present were Miss Mary Lindsay-Oliver of Carmel and Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Carson of Berkeley, with whom Miss Lindsay-Oliver visited over the weekend.

Pop "Lives It Up" At 86

Cecil "Pop" Smith celebrated his eighty-sixth birthday Sunday night, and sent off a birthday greeting to another personage sharing his natal day of May 29: President John F. Kennedy.

In his somewhat ambiguous happy-birthday message to the chief executive, Pop said "With all your success you're as simple as you were." The greetings were relayed to the president via his press secretary, Pierre Salinger.

Pop's birthday was observed with his son, Carmel Valley photographer George T. C. Smith, at the Seven Pleasures. Father and son enjoyed squab and wine for dinner. The presence of a brace of showgirls who flanked Pop for a birthday portrait with his one-candle cake added excitement to the evening.

A birthday present which gave Pop equal pleasure was the letter he received from his daughter, Grace (Mrs. Ludwig Kaftan) telling about his granddaughter. Dr. and Mrs. Kaftan flew east Monday to attend the graduation of their daughter, Linda, from Stephens College. Pop is glowing with grandfatherly pride over the fact that his granddaughter stands among the top 20 in her class of 600. She will return with the Kaftans to their home in Los Angeles this weekend.

Composer Henry Cowell Visits

Famed composer and former Carmelite Henry Cowell and his wife, Sidney, paid a visit to Carmel last weekend and were warmly reunited with many old friends at an "old-timers' gathering" given Sunday afternoon by Miss Edith Dickinson.

The Cowells are currently based in Menlo Park, though their permanent home is in New York City. They have maintained roots in this area through ownership of property down the coast near Big Sur.

Mr. Cowell, one of America's greatest living composers, lived here during the first World War, and participated in many of the village's cultural events. One of his works was featured in a concert by the Monterey County Symphony last season.

The Morley Baers Here

Former Carmelites Morley and Frances Baer, along with their eight-year-old son, Josh, renewed old acquaintances here over the Memorial Day holiday.

Morley, one of the country's leading architectural photographers, found the sunny holiday ideal for taking pictures of a home which is to be featured in a national magazine.

The Baers have made their home in Berkeley since 1953, and have spent much of the past two years traveling abroad. Friends had some difficulty recognizing Morley this week: he now hides behind a handsome, Hemingwayesque beard.

O.E.S. Has Picnic Dinner

The annual officers' party given by Carmel Chapter, O.E.S., transposed the atmosphere and victuals of an outdoor holiday picnic to the Cypress Club May 24. Flags, bunting, and red-and-white checked napery contributed to the informal, festive picnic motif, and a menu of salads, hot dogs and soft drinks completed the effect. The picnic theme was also reflected in a short skit, entitled Picnic for a Little Emigrant, in which James Alcorn took the leading role.

Honored guests at the party were Mrs. Hazel Marsh Piper, Past Grand Matron and Mrs. Mary Parlier, Deputy Grand Matron, of the 44th District of the Grand Chapter of California. Local chapter officers also honored were Worthy Matron Mrs. Grace Fontes and Norman Winslow, Worthy Patron, as well as Shirley Lewis, Associate Matron; George Bloomer, Associate Patron; Clare Winslow, Secretary; William Symonds, Treasurer; Helen Durel, Conductress; Mary Purrington, Associate Conductress; Faerie Symonds, Chaplain; Grace Dixon, Organist; Violet Tekawa, Adah; Gloria Kappadahl, Esther; Joanne Craven, Martha; Nora Flately, Electa; Bonnie Byers, Ruth; Paul Tekawa, Warder; Leslie Deck, Sentinel; Flo Holm, Prompter.

Stephen Gray Gets Sousa Award

Stephen Gray, son of Dr. and Mrs. K. Fillmore Gray, received a special honor at his graduation Monday from Wasatch Academy in Utah. Stephen was given the John Philip Sousa Award, with the citation "In recognition of outstanding achievement and interest in instrumental music; for singular merit in loyalty and cooperation and for displaying these high qualities of conduct which school instrumental music strives to impart."

The award was made at conclusion of a concert Sunday in which Steve was a trombone soloist in a Concerto Grosso by Morrissey. Other solo turns for Steve during the commencement week include a trombone stint Saturday night and a baritone solo at the school's annual music recital the preceding evening. As if these were not enough, Steve also played in a brass ensemble at the commencement program and sang in the choir as well.

Sharing a bit of the commencement limelight was Stephen's father, who marched in the academic procession and read the scripture for the service.

The Grays return home this week with Steve and his younger brother, Stan, who has completed his freshman year at Wasatch.

David Machado

A Requiem High Mass will be celebrated at Carmel Mission Basilica tomorrow morning for David F. Machado, member of a pioneer Carmel family and a veteran Carmel fireman, who died May 27 in a local hospital following a short illness.

Members of the Carmel Volunteer Fire Department will serve as pallbearers at the 9:30 o'clock funeral services tomorrow. They will be Fire Chief Robert Smith, and volunteers Roy Walls, Gene Ricketts, James R. Belvail, John Hudelson and Alfred MacDonald.

Preceding the Mass, brief services will take place at 9:00 o'clock at the Dorney and Farlinger Memorial Chapel. Holy Rosary will be said at the Chapel at 8:00 o'clock tonight.

Mr. Machado was born March 28, 1897, in Carmel Valley, and attended Carmelo School. His family has been closely associated with Carmel Mission for three generations. His parents, Antonio Machado and the former Mary Ann Dutra, were both born at the Mission, as Antonio Machado's parents were before them.

The Mission was also the scene of David Machado's marriage in 1936 to the former Rosalie Tobar.

The Carmel Fire Department still used hand-drawn equipment when Mr. Machado joined the force as a volunteer in 1915. He served a total of 46 years with the department, 26 years as a volunteer fireman and the past 20 years as a paid fireman. During that time he fought every major fire in this area, including the two Golden Bough Theatre fires and the disastrous oil tank fire in Monterey. Employed in recent years as an engineer with the department, Mr. Machado also served on the rescue team and crew for the Red Cross ambulance operated by the department. He was scheduled for retirement next March, when he would have reached the age of 65.

He was a member of the California State Firemen's Association. An Army veteran of World War I, Mr. Machado was also a member of Carmel American Legion Post 512.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by a brother, Fred Machado of Monterey, and four sisters, Mrs. John Thompson and Mrs. Nancy Webster of Monterey, Mrs. Lee Brown of Seaside, and Mrs. Clarence Johnson of Billings, Montana. Mrs. Mary Goold of Carmel is his aunt.

Burial will take place following the funeral services tomorrow in the Catholic section of Mission Memorial Park in Monterey.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"God the Only Cause and Creator" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon to be heard at all Christian Science churches Sunday.

Readings from the King James Version of the Bible will include this verse from Revelation (4): "Thou art worthy, O Lord, to receive glory and honour and power: for thou hast created all things, and for thy pleasure they are and were created."

One of the correlative passages to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy states (p. 207): "There is but one primal cause. Therefore there can be no effect from any other cause, and there can be no reality in aught which does not proceed from this great and only cause."

The Golden Text is from Psalm 72: "Blessed be the Lord God, the God of Israel, who only doeth wondrous things."

In 1897 Perry McDonald Rode Bicycle From Valley To Canada

scarcer then than now, and therefore much of the bike riding Perry did had to be along railroad right-of-ways, the timing doesn't seem so poor. Neither did it to the "wheel" manufacturer for whom he made the epic journey. He became quite a celebrity among cyclists of the time, especially since his only mishap on the entire trip was when he skinned a bike tire hitting a fishplate on the Union Pacific tracks. The tire held, however, rolling him safely into the cheering midst of the Picton Bicycle Club.

Most Valley residents who know Perry McDonald as a long-time dweller there, occupant of a low farm house set in an orchard along the first quarter-mile of Robinson Canyon Road, firmly believe he has been there all his long and busy life. (He'll be 93 in December.)

Not so, says Perry. Three years after he first came, he went to British Columbia. Then from 1904 to 1915 he worked for the Pacific Mail Steamship Company in San Francisco. "I managed to take in the earthquake, you see."

When he returned to this area, he bought out Mr. Waterbury's interest in the Carmel Dairy, which Mr. McDonald operated from 1919 to 1928, going from there to operating the McDonald Dairy for four more years.

In the early thirties he began to put all his efforts into farming the acres he owned at the mouth of Robinson Canyon surrounding the home he still keeps there.

A thriving corn patch flanks the back yard. Farm equipment, including a 40-year-old Fordson tractor kept in good working order, is also in evidence at the McDonald home. "I raise just enough corn to keep busy," Perry explains.

Divertissement with farmer McDonald takes the form of an endlessly running tournament of the game Hollywood Go with his friend and former neighbor Feg Murray. A mystery to onlookers, the game is a deadly serious subject to the pair of friends, and Perry won't even say who wins, mostly.

In addition to his daughter, Mrs. Beatrice Giem who is also his next door neighbor, Mr. McDonald's family includes a son, Raymond McDonald of Vacaville, another daughter, Sister Elizabeth Joan, a teacher at San Carlos, and seven grandchildren.

WE COULD HARDLY WAIT

UNTIL PINE CONE TIME to tell you about one of Carmel's most interesting homes which we offer with pride at a price we can hardly believe ourselves. It's one of our lovely old Carmel stone homes, handsome in architectural detail, beautifully landscaped on a large lot, with a double garage. The living room is thirty feet long, beamed, and has a magnificent fireplace in which your biggest Yule log will fit easily. Small dining room, 3 bedrooms, 2 baths, outside entrance to the bedroom wing (which would make fine provision for a suite for a friend or relation). Bedrooms are large, closets capacious. Kitchen has lots of cabinets and would take well to modern built-in equipment. And here's the exciting part: When the price was $45,000, you all wanted it, thought it well worth the price, but just couldn't afford it. This week's price: $32,500. See why we're excited?

We shall miss this connection and, particularly, our association with the teachers who have educated and developed our four children. They listened to our complaints. They encouraged us. They rejoiced with us. Sometimes, we suspect, they secretly deplored our stupidity, but, being true teachers they patiently endeavored to lead us along the road of learning towards fuller understanding and knowledge of our childen's varied personalities as these children grew towards adulthood.

In farewell, may we pass on what we learned from the example and interest of all these teachers: human beings progress in a positive atmosphere of encouragement, confidence, inquiry and discussion; regress in an air of criticism, mistrust and denunciation.

The first state has existed throughout our association with the Carmel school system. May the second never arise! That way comes destruction to any school system.
